Dynamic Traffic Assignment for the City of Austin's Strategic Mobility Plan

Abstract
A dynamic traffic assignment (DTA) model was used to evaluate five scenarios of changes to streets in downtown Austin, Texas. Performance measures were gathered not only for the street being changed, but also for streets throughout the rest of downtown. This poster illustrates the work that went into building a DTA model for downtown Austin and the results of each scenario modeled.

Authors: J. Duthie, N. Ruiz Juri, S. Travis Waller

Jennifer Duthie, PhD
Center for Transportation Research
The University of Texas at Austin
(512) 232-3088